MASTER OF ADVANCED STUDIES
TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE, HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE RULE OF LAW
Geneva, September 2016 - August 2017
Countries throughout the world struggle to deal with the aftermath of violent conflict and oppressive rule. To assist such societies, the expanding field of transitional justice proposes a range of practical measures, including criminal prosecutions, truth commissions, reparation programmes, and institutional reform.

Based in international Geneva, this Master’s programme comprehensively explores the theoretical debates that surround transitional justice as well as its practical application. This is the first Master’s programme to link transitional justice, human rights and the rule of law. Carefully structured to address key issues and perspectives, it covers ethics and human rights; institutional reform and building the rule of law after conflict; international criminal and humanitarian law; development and economic, social and cultural rights; gender issues; constitution-making.

Designed to provide a gateway into careers in the growing transitional justice sector, it focuses on developing practical skills by offering integrated internships, a year-long clinic, and professionalizing activities in Geneva and beyond.
