

NOVEMBER

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT BULLETIN

dates, information, reminders

EXAM REGISTRATION

27th October--7th November, rooms A215 and A216

Registration for the January/February exam session is now open. Having signed up for an exam, either in person or online, students of the English Department should notify Clare Tierque (clare.tierque@unige.ch) of the relevant module number, exam type, seminar or lecture course title, and instructor.

SONNETS in the ROUND

Monday, 10th November, 18.15, room A109

To celebrate the publication of their bilingual edition of Shakespeare's sonnets (Cátedra, 2014), Jenaro Talens and Richard Waswo will engage in a round-table discussion with Lukas Erne, Roberto Leporatti, and Samuel Junod. Their subject will be La tradition européenne des sonnets à la Renaissance. All welcome.

REMEMBERING WWI

Tuesday 11th November, 9.00--19.00, room B106

The faculté des Lettres will commemorate the centenary of the First World War with a day-long series of talks, Les Bastions remémorent la guerre de 1914-1918. Faculty members will offer insights into the texts, images, documents, and music of the Great War. All welcome.

THEATRE in ENGLISH

11th--15th November, Théâtre de Terre Sainte

Geneva English Drama Society presents Much Ado About Nothing, by William Shakespeare. Tickets are 35 CHF (full price) and 25 CHF (students). For further information visit:
<http://www.geds.ch/prod/much-ado/much-ado.htm>

FILM CLUB

Thursdays, 19.00, room B112

This month:

- 13th November The Princess Bride pres. by Amy Brown
- 27th November Imprint pres. by Deborah Madsen

MONDAY NIGHT FEELINGS

Due to lack of participants, MNF will be on hiatus until spring semester 2015

Monday Night Feelings is an extra-curricular student discussion group, organised for students by students. It aims to provide a non-academic (but not necessarily unacademic) forum in which to share personal responses to courses, literature, and university life in general. For further details contact: anna.treiman@etu.unige.ch

We need more participants to keep this group going -- join us next semester!