

Portland Press R&P workflow for authors

Authors can submit their work to any Portland Press journal.

Submit Your Work

Portland Press welcomes submission of research and review articles in all areas of the molecular biosciences. Find the journal that best fits the scope of your work and submit your paper for consideration.

Review articles in the above journals are often invited, but the Editorial Board welcomes non-invited content for consideration.

In addition to the journals above, Portland Press also publishes several journals where content is fully commissioned and invited for submission.

Author Information

Please enter the information below. Required fields are marked with an asterisk (*). Portland Press endorses the Vancouver Guidelines on authorship as defined in the ICMJE Recommendations for the Conduct, Reporting, Editing and Publication of Scholarly Work in Medical Journals, and detailed in the Portland Press Editorial Policy. All contributors who do not meet the criteria for authorship should be listed in the Acknowledgements. IMPORTANT: Please ensure that the data (including names and affiliations) provided for each author are accurate and consistent as these data will be used to generate the PubMed record for the article should it be accepted.

Total number of authors on the manuscript:
Please enter the number of authors (corresponding and co-authors).

ORCID is mandated for the corresponding author of revised submissions. If the profile of the corresponding author is missing an ORCID, click edit to add this.

This brings up a new window where authors can search for their institution.

Selecting the correct institution and clicking Save will validate the affiliation and a green tick will appear on the right-hand side.

Once the author progresses to the Detailed Information tab of the submission form the system will check the author's affiliation against the list of institutional agreements in RightsLink. If the institution holds an active R&P agreement with Portland Press the author will be made aware of this immediately.

During subsequent revisions our editorial system will keep checking and notify the author of any changes to their eligibility (e.g. if the initial R&P agreement expired or a new institution signed up and an author's paper thus became eligible during the review/revision process). Where an agreement mandates that authors publish under a specific license type this will automatically be presented to them during revision.

Furthermore, e-mail correspondences with the author at submission, revision and acceptance will also make reference to an author's R&P eligibility.

Once accepted, articles will be visible to librarians in the RightsLink institutional portal. If auto-approvals are switched on then no action needs to be taken, otherwise each funding request will need to be manually approved in the portal.
