ABOUT US

Founded in 2000 by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and seven other leading Swiss organisations, the AISTS is located in Lausanne, the birthplace of the Olympic Movement. There is no better location – or academic institution – to take your career in sport to the next level.

Studying at the AISTS unlocks not only a rich education covering every aspect of sports administration, but it also gives you access to an unprecedented network of contacts and real-world work experience. As a result of this 360 degree approach, our graduates are recruited to work at some of the world's most respected sporting organisations, federations, and associations.

REQUIREMENTS

We are looking for mature potential leaders with an international outlook who are committed to a career in sports administration.

Master level

Master degree recognised by Swiss universities, in any field of study. Total 4.5 to 5 years of study.

Work experience

Minimum five years if you hold a Bachelor. Being an international athlete counts as work experience, as does certain types of volunteering.

English fluency

All the lectures are in English and participants must be fluent. A TOEFL or IELTS minimum score is required for non-native speakers. See our website for more details.

Financially able

Participants must be able to finance both their studies and their cost of living in Lausanne (approx. 2,200 to 2,500 CHF per month).

Requirements are subject to change.*

WHY CHOOSE AISTS?

1

Learn every aspect of sport management

The AISTS master offers a unique multidisciplinary approach, along with one-to-one career coaching. During your time here you will learn:

2

Management
Technology
Law
Sociology

Medicine
Transdisciplinary Studies
(e.g. Sport Events, Sustainability, Anti-Doping)

3

Study in the Olympic Capital

Lausanne is where the Olympic Movement began and is home to the IOC and 50+ international sporting federations. Our building also hosts other sports institutions, giving you greater connections to the industry.

4

Learn from the best experts in sport

Through our three partner universities and our extensive network, we have united some of the top minds in sports. Together, they form the backbone of your education.

5

Practical, real-world learning

From work experience to team projects - where you will work on live client briefs from the world of sport - you will graduate not just with academic vigour, but real-life experience of working in sports management.

"The AISTS offers a one-of-a-kind platform to meet top sport officials and exchange with them on all latest developments affecting sport. I truly recommend this program to anyone wishing to step into international sport administration."
