SUSTAINABILITY ACTIVISM

Exploring social change at the intersection of human rights and the environment

- This Summer School explores the changing realities, conditions and practices of sustainability activism on topics such as climate change, human rights and environmental protection uniting social science and activist perspectives.
- We bring together Right Livelihood Laureate Vandana Shiva with students, experts from International Geneva and faculty from the Universities of Geneva and Zürich. It is a safe space to share and discuss experiences, challenges and opportunities faced in contemporary forms of activism.
- The Right Livelihood Award recognizes the actions of brave visionaries committed to peace, justice and sustainability for all. The work of the Right Livelihood Foundation goes beyond only presenting the Award: they provide these change-makers with long-term support.
