

SDG Summer School 2022

Open Source Health Solutions

4 – 29 July 2022

The 2022 SDG Summer School will take place in hybrid format, with teams working locally in maker spaces in Geneva, Beijing, Paris, Seoul and Shenzhen, while collaborating online in a global network. Organisations like the Global Fund and WHO will provide challenges and mentors to the teams. In addition, PhD students working in leading health organisations in Geneva and around the globe will coach the teams.

All accepted participants will receive intensive mentoring and coaching to help transform ideas or early-stage prototypes into impactful solutions, and will become part of a global online community of young civic innovators. The SDG Summer School includes interactions with UN Agencies, International Organisations, NGOs and other partnering organisations in Geneva.

This year's edition of the SDG Summer School is supported by the Global Fund for the Fight against AIDS, Malaria and Tuberculosis, and corporate sponsors Partisia Blockchain Foundation and Seeed Studio.

Please note: each of the five sites participating in the SDG Summer School has a separate application procedure: make sure to select the site you intend to join when applying.
