PLAN D'ÉTUDES DE LANGUE ET LITTÉRATURE ANGLAISES	11

Welcome to the Department of English

The English Department is dedicated to the study of English language and literature in a wide range of historical and cultural contexts, from the origins of the language to the most contemporary forms of literature. There is at least one professor for each of the department's five principal areas of study: Old English and Middle English literature, Modern English literature of the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, Modern English literature of the eighteenth to the twentieth century, American literature, and Linguistics. In addition, the study of Contemporary literatures in English is supervised by a maître d'enseignement et de recherche. The department's distinguished record in research and scholarship serves the cause of good teaching: your instructors are also scholars actively engaged in defining their respective fields; as teachers, they are committed to making the study of English an intellectually challenging and rewarding experience.

This brochure describes the first year in English at the University of Geneva. It supplements information to be found in the Programme des cours of the Faculté des lettres and the Plan d'études of the department. For easy reference, you will find a schematic summary of the BA Plan d'études at the end of this brochure.

When you arrive in the English Department, you might feel confused and even overwhelmed. Study at university level works in a very different way from study at collège, gymnase, or lycée. We work in different buildings across the city, for one thing, and for another, you'll be exposed to new and exciting, and very different ways of studying language and literature. One important factor to keep in mind is that you will need to show a lot more independence and autonomy in your work. You will be spending about eleven hours in the classroom, but you should also expect to be working independently outside the classroom, which will include reading-, writing-, and research-based tasks.

However, all of us on the staff of the English Department are here to help you become part of this new environment. Do not hesitate to call on any of us: our departmental noticeboards and website show the reception hours during which you may visit us in our offices, and we urge you to do so whenever you have a question. If the question relates to a specific class, address it to the instructor. Reception hours are not normally held during exam sessions. Questions about the programme in English may be addressed to the Director of the department: Professor Simon Swift.

For administrative matters, our secretaries can assist you during the hours posted on the departmental website. You may also call the secretariat at 022.379.70.34.

The English Department, with the secretariat and the offices of teachers of English literature, is located on the second floor of the Comédie building at 12, boulevard des Philosophes (above the restaurant Cipollino). The offices of teachers of English linguistics are located on the seventh floor of the Landolt building at 2, rue de Candolle.

Classes will take place in various buildings during the renovation of the main building, known as "Bastions." Please consult the departmental website to identify their locations. Indeed, we encourage you to consult our website regularly for all sorts of current information, events, opportunities, and last-minute changes in the course schedule:

<https://www.unige.ch/lettres/angle>

In addition, students are required to subscribe to the English Department's e-mail here:

<https://listes.unige.ch/sympa/subscribe/angle-ba>

Many books used in our classes are either ordered through the English book section of Librairie Payot, 7, rue de la Confédération, or can be ordered online (the correct edition and ISBN reference number will be indicated by your teacher). Other course readers can be ordered through the university's printing service: polycopie.unige.ch. Your teachers will inform you where their book orders have been placed. There is a photocopying machine available for your use in our library, as well as a printer.

The First Year at a Glance

University classes begin a quarter of an hour after the time stated on the timetable, to allow students to change buildings as necessary. Students must arrive punctually for the start of class.

The first-year curriculum in English is an integrated programme of introduction to English linguistics and to literary studies. It consists of the courses shown in the box on the next page, all of which, including the Writing Lab, are required.

BA1 and BA2 are required modules. Successful completion of BA1 is required before students can proceed to the advanced English literature modules (BA4, BA5, BA6, BA7); successful completion of BA2 is required to advance to BA3 in English linguistics.

Module BA1

- Introduction to English Literature
A year-long lecture course given by Dr Sangam MacDuff and Dr Katherine Hallemeier.
Tuesday 10:00-12:00, Palais Athénée - Abeilles.
- Analysis of Texts (AT): Travaux Pratiques (TP)
2 hours a week for the whole year. Six groups are offered.
- Composition (Academic and Critical Writing Skills): Travaux Pratiques (TP)
One hour a week for the whole year. Four groups are offered.
- A Writing Lab, open four half-days per week in Comédie 213.
A one-on-one tutorial service to help students improve their written skills in English.
At least one visit per semester.

Module BA2

- Introduction to English Linguistics
A year-long lecture course given by Prof. Eric Haeberli.
Thursday 12:00-14:00, Pont Rouge - Forum 211.
- English Linguistics Travaux Pratiques (TP)
2 hours a week for the whole year. Four groups are offered.
- Practical Language Travaux Pratiques (TP)
2 hours a week for the whole year. Three groups are offered.

BA1: English Literature

The first-year programme in English literature (module BA1) consists of a weekly lecture course (two hours), a class in textual analysis (two hours) and a class in composition/critical writing (one hour), and at least two visits to the Writing Lab over the course of the year.

Lecture: Introduction to the Study of Literature

Tuesday 10:00-12:00 Sangam MacDuff Palais Athénée – Abeilles in autumn
 Tuesday 10:00-12:00 Katherine Hallemeier Palais Athénée – Abeilles in spring

The BA1 lecture course introduces students to the reading of English literature and the writing about it. It is divided into four parts over two semesters: the first on poetry and the essay taught by Sangam MacDuff; the second on drama and narrative taught by Katherine Hallemeier. Each weekly lecture is supported by an Analysis of Texts class where issues raised in the lecture can be discussed by students with their instructors.

In the first semester we will begin to think about what is at stake in the reading of a poem in English through close examination of a range of poetic examples. We will then consider the essay as a form that has a history, ask what essays are trying to do as forms of writing, and what reading them can teach us about how to write them, and to write about poetry.

In the second semester some of the essential features of drama will be introduced through a close reading of William Shakespeare's Hamlet, Folger Shakespeare Library (Simon & Schuster, updated, bigger edition, 2012, ISBN 978-1-4516-6941-1, copies are available from Payot). Narrative will be studied through a close reading of Toni Morrison's Beloved (Random House UK, ISBN 978-0-099-76011-5, copies are available from Payot).

Students must order and buy the BA1 lecture course Reader "Introduction to the Study of Literature" from polycopie.unige.ch before classes begin. It takes 48 hours for the order to be processed and ready to collect from Uni-Mail. The reader costs approximately 15 CHF.

The lecture course begins on Tuesday, 23 September 2025.

Analysis of Texts (AT) Travaux Pratiques

The groups of Analysis of Texts are devoted to close study of the literary texts listed in the programme for the Introduction to the Study of Literature lecture course. Each group is taught by one instructor per semester, who assigns written work and administers assessment. The group provides a forum for discussion and addresses questions of textual analysis during a two-hour period each week.

The Analysis of Texts TP groups are listed on page 7 and begin on Tuesday, 23 September 2025.

Composition (Academic and Critical Writing Skills) Travaux Pratiques

Students will need to learn the conventions of academic writing, since these are a vital contribution to the grade of their written work.

Active participation in class and further study and assignments at home are required.
 An attestation certifying satisfactory completion of this course is required for completion of the BA1 module.

Required texts:

(1) A textbook (Rules for Writers, 10th edition) that will be sold in class. Please have the exact amount (around 35 francs) with you on the first day of classes: Wednesday 25 September (groups 1 and 2) and Friday 27 September (groups 3 and 4).

(2) A print on-demand reader. To order a copy

- Go to polycopie.unige.ch/en/ (You will be asked for your password.)
- In the Search bar, type “Fachard”
- Select the reader entitled “Composition, Autumn 2025”
- Click on “Add to Cart”
- Click on “Proceed to checkout” and complete your order.

The Composition (Academic and Critical Writing Skills) TP groups are scheduled on page 7 and begin on Wednesday, 24 September 2025.

A Note on Grading – BA1 English Literature Programme

BA1 is evaluated through contrôle continu or graded, continuous assessment across the year. Students will be evaluated as follows: an in-class mid-term test and a take-home essay in the autumn semester; and a take-home essay and in-class end of term essay in the spring. The grade for BA1 will comprise these four elements. Successful completion of all research tasks and assigned work in AT and Composition (Critical Writing) is required in order to gain the necessary credits for module BA1. See the BA1 Reader for more details about grading and assessment.

Only students who receive an overall grade of 4.0 or more will qualify for modules BA4-7. Students who receive a grade of less than 4.0 will have the option to re-take the final exam during the September exam session. Students who fail this second attempt at BA1 are advised to retake the entire module in the following year (third and final attempt). Those students who have failed in June but do not wish to re-sit an exam on the entire module in the September examination session can directly retake all classes and contrôles continus in the following academic year (this will then count as their second attempt at BA1).

Participation in class discussion is an essential part of the learning process. For this reason, the amount and quality of your contributions to class discussion will be taken into account in the grades given for each written exercise. Regular attendance is required and is a condition for permission to take the written evaluations of the contrôle continu.

BA2: English Linguistics

The first-year programme in English linguistics (module BA2) consists of a lecture course, related Travaux Pratiques (TP), and Practical Language.

Lecture: Introduction to English Linguistics

Thursday 12:00-14:00 Eric Haeberli Pont Rouge - Forum 211

This course provides an introduction to linguistics as the scientific study of language. After a short introduction to general issues – the aims and methods of linguistics, a brief overview of the different fields in linguistics – the lectures will concentrate on the core areas of linguistics: semantics/pragmatics (meaning), phonetics/phonology (sounds and sound patterns), morphology (word formation), and syntax (sentence formation). This implies acquiring the descriptive tools and illustrating how these descriptive tools can be applied to the study of the English language. The final section of the course will focus on one area of the grammar of English, the auxiliary system, and we will study this topic against the general background outlined in the first part of the course.

Material for the lecture course and the TP in English linguistics will be made available on the course website (see <https://moodle.unige.ch>).

The lecture course begins on Thursday, 18 September 2025.

English Linguistics Travaux Pratiques

The Travaux Pratiques (TP) are “hands-on” sessions designed to reinforce and practise the notions introduced in the lecture course Introduction to English Linguistics. They also focus on the acquisition of specific skills, such as examining linguistic data, identifying linguistic problems, solving the problems using linguistic tools, and writing short essays.

Material for the lecture course and the TP in English linguistics will be made available on the course website (see <https://moodle.unige.ch>).

The English linguistics TP groups are listed on page 7 and begin on Monday, 22 September 2025.

A Note on Grading – BA2 English Linguistics Programme

The English Linguistics programme is divided into four parts. The content of each section provides the basis for a written test in the form of exercises and short essays. For the last test, students will be asked to write a complete essay. The grade for module BA2 will consist of the average of the grades obtained in the four tests. This average must equal 4.0 or more in order for the student to qualify for module BA3. Students who receive a grade of less than 4.0 in the contrôle continu will have the option to be examined again on the entire BA2 module in the September examination session. Students who fail that exam (their second attempt at BA2) are advised to retake all classes and contrôles continus in the following academic year (third and final attempt). Those students who have failed in June but do not wish to re-sit an exam on the entire module in the September examination session can directly retake all classes and contrôles continus in the following academic year (this will then count as their second attempt at BA2).

Practical Language Travaux Pratiques

Practical Language classes use texts and other media on a variety of topics related to the cultures of the English-speaking world to help students consolidate and improve their proficiency in grammar, vocabulary and language use. In addition to language practice, the course aims to introduce a basic descriptive framework for the English language. This is designed to enable students to develop their own mastery of the language independently, and to be useful for those who aim to go on to teach.

Active participation in class and further study at home are required. Assessment is continuous during the academic year. An attestation certifying satisfactory completion of this course is required for completion of the BA2 module.

Required course material:

(1) a reader, to be purchased at polycopie@unige.ch (price: around 11 francs); (2) Douglas Biber et al., Longman Student Grammar of Spoken and Written English (Pearson, 2013). Copies of this book will be available for purchase at Payot ' Rive Gauche (rue de la Confédération 7, 1204 Geneva); price: CHF 38.30 with student discount. DO NOT BUY a copy of this book before the first class.

The Practical Language TP groups are listed on page 7 and begin on Wednesday, 24 September 2025.

Module à option

Students who choose subjects other than English as their two main branches may take either BA1 or BA2 as their 15th BA module (module à option).

Signing up

All students must attend each of the six courses listed above: the lecture courses in Literature and Linguistics; two Travaux Pratiques groups (Analysis of Texts TP and Composition TP) attached to the BA1 lecture course; and two Travaux Pratiques groups (English Linguistics TP and Practical Language TP) attached to the BA2 lecture course.

Lecture courses do not require separate departmental sign-ups—just come along to the correct room at the correct time. Visits to the Writing Lab are compulsory at least once a semester and you must sign up at <https://calendly.com/edwl/>.

You will also need to sign up for the various literature and linguistics Travaux Pratiques. You MUST sign up for ONE of EACH of the Travaux Pratiques groups shown below and on the next page. Your registration will not be complete until you have signed up for all four. Movement between groups is not permitted.

Sign-up for all groups will be done online via the following link – which you will also find in the right-hand column of our department homepage – from

Tuesday, 16 September, 13:00 until Wednesday, 17 September, 18:00:

<https://www.unige.ch/lettres/angle/inscription-tp>. You will be able to access the results of the sign-up using that same link on Friday, 19 September at 12:00.

If you have questions about registration, you can ask them during our permanence on Tuesday, 16 September 2025 between 17:00 and 18:30, in room Phil 102.

The person in charge of sign-ups is Alexandre Fachard. All questions are to be addressed to him by email: Alexandre.Fachard@unige.ch

Analysis of Texts (AT) TP Groups

There are six groups of Travaux Pratiques in BA1 (two hours per week). These groups are commonly referred to as Analysis of Texts or AT. You are required to sign up for one of them. Students should sign up by ranking all groups in order of preference; we will endeavour to place students in one of their preferred groups. If you have a compulsory class in your second discipline on Tuesdays, 10-12 (i.e., the same time as the BA1 lecture course) you should sign up for an AT group meeting on Thursday, so that you can listen to the lecture recording before class.

Faculty Information Session about On-Line Registration (IEL)

Students must attend the obligatory Faculty information session for all new students about on-line registration, which will take place on Thursday, 25 September 2024 at 18:15 in room MR290 - Uni Mail.

The Writing Lab

The Writing Lab is an individual tutorial service provided to help students to improve their written English. It is located to the right of the Secretariat in the English Department (CO 213), on the second floor of the Comédie building (12, boulevard des Philosophes), and is open four half-days per week. You may schedule a 30-minute appointment to discuss a piece of writing at any stage (from outline to finished paper) with one of the Writing Lab monitors, and you may visit the Lab up to five times per module. The Writing Lab monitors are fellow students who can act as sounding boards for your ideas as well as offer advice on the structure of your writing. First-year students are required to visit the lab at least once per semester, and the service is also recommended to upper-level students. Students may be asked by their instructors to attend the Writing Lab throughout their studies. Sign-up: <https://calendly.com/edwl/>.

Statement on Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the misrepresentation of the words or ideas of another as one's own. It applies to published material (whether in print or electronically), as well as unpublished material, such as the work of another student. At the University of Geneva, plagiarism is treated as a form of fraud. Article 38 of the Règlement de l'Université provides for a series of disciplinary measures to be taken against such conduct, ranging from the annulment of the student's examination session to expulsion from the University:

1. En cas de fraude ou de tentative de fraude, le jury ou, le cas échéant, le surveillant fait immédiatement rapport au doyen de la faculté ou au président de l'école.
2. Sur proposition de l'ensemble des enseignants responsables des matières qui font l'objet des examens, le collège des professeurs peut annuler tous les examens subis par le candidat dans la session et ajourner les examens du candidat à une autre session. L'annulation de la session entraîne l'échec du candidat à cette session.
3. Le collège des professeurs peut aussi, le cas échéant, proposer au rectorat l'exclusion temporaire, pour une année au plus, ou l'exclusion définitive du candidat.

Avoiding plagiarism is basically a matter of acknowledging one's sources. The procedures for doing so are explained in detail in the Style Sheet, which is available to download from the homepage of the English Department website. For more information about plagiarism and how to avoid it, consult the following website:

https://owl.purdue.edu/owl/teacher_and_tutor_resources/preventing_plagiarism/avoiding_plagiarism/index.html

The Library for English Literature

The library is the heart of every university, and the Department of English is fortunate to have a very good one. Located in the renovated Jura building of Uni Bastions, the library houses approximately 25,000 volumes of English literature, criticism, general background and reference, in addition to journals of literary criticism and theory. Books and journals in the field of English linguistics are also available on loan or for consultation. Its opening hours are 8:00-22:00 Monday through Friday, and 9:00-18:00 Saturdays and Sundays, with a reduced schedule during university vacation periods. In addition to books from UNIGE library collections, students may also borrow from libraries throughout Switzerland that are part of the same network, called SLSP. The student card is also the library card, but it is necessary to register online to activate your account. The procedure is described on the library web pages (<https://www.unige.ch/biblio/en/services/registration>) (see 2. Registration with SLSP). Essential ebooks, journals and online databases for English studies are listed on the library website (<http://www.unige.ch/biblio/anglais>). On the same pages students will find full contact details for Alexandra Zehnder, the subject librarian for English collections. Questions are welcome at all times.

The main discovery tool that students can use to search UNIGE collections is called swisscovery unige (<https://swisscovery.unige.ch>). Information on séances de formation for library users can be found at the library desk or online (<https://www.unige.ch/biblio/en/training>).

In addition to the University Library, the Bibliothèque de Genève (BGE), located in the Parc des Bastions, also has an important collection of books in English literature. To access the BGE's online resources students must, only once, fill in a form (<https://dis.unige.ch/slsp/bge/form/>).

Time Management and Outside Work

The BA programme at the University of Geneva is one of full-time study. Full-time study means forty hours per week of classroom time and independent learning, both branches included. You should also factor in time for pleasurable, study-enhancing activities like those organised by the English Department's student association (AELLA), for example its book club or games nights. Also, in our faculty much intellectual development happens during informal exchanges with your fellow students over coffee or lunch.

Studying in this immersive, enriching way will leave you little, if any, time to work to earn money. Consequently, if you need a job to provide for food, health insurance, or rent, we suggest that you consider taking longer to complete your studies. Trying to finish your BA in three years whilst holding down a part-time job is probably an unrealistic proposition. We advise you to take your time!

So enjoy your studies, and remember: much intellectual and personal development happens outside the classroom. Not only the teaching you follow, but also the friendships and relationships that you develop over the next few years will influence who you become and may sustain you through the rest of your life. Give yourself the time to find out not just about English language and literature, but also about the world you live in and about yourself.

AELLA

The Association des Étudiant.e.s en Langue et Littérature Anglaises (AELLA) is the English Department's student association. Its main aim is to promote and celebrate anglophone literatures and cultures within the department by organising cultural and social events. The committee members organise gatherings throughout the year (apéros, game nights) and plan cultural visits. They also run activities such as the Book Club and the Creative Writing Group, which are run by students for students. The AELLA helps make students' voices heard: the committee members answer any questions students may have; they work out solutions to their problems and they forward their concerns or requests to the Commission mixte. If you want to find out more about the association and its activities, you can follow it on Facebook and Instagram. You can contact the committee via the email address aella@unige.ch, or via its Facebook and Instagram pages.

The Commission mixte

The Commission mixte is a body of students, members of the corps d'enseignement et de recherche and professors who meet two or three times a year to exchange views on department problems and ways of solving them. The discussions cover topics such as the plan d'études, examinations, teaching and other practical matters. Students interested in becoming delegates can propose their candidature during the department's Annual General Meeting, which usually takes place early in the spring term. They are also invited to read the reports of the last meetings of the Commission mixte (<https://www.unige.ch/lettres/angle/en/current-students/commission-mixte-21>) or contact by email one of the present members listed below:

DÉPARTEMENT DE LANGUE ET LITTÉRATURE ANGLAISES

PLAN D'ÉTUDES DE LANGUE ET LITTÉRATURE ANGLAISES

BACCALAURÉAT UNIVERSITAIRE
BACHELOR OF ARTS (BA)

Entrée en vigueur : septembre 2025

Avant-propos

Le plan d'études de langue et littérature anglaises propose un programme en deux stades au cours desquels l'étudiant-e acquiert une liberté progressive dans le choix de ses sujets en fonction de ses connaissances de base :

- I. Le premier niveau du Baccalauréat universitaire (Bachelor of Arts, BA) offre une introduction générale à la discipline, tant en littérature qu'en linguistique.
- II. Au deuxième niveau du BA, les études se poursuivent de manière à la fois plus avancée et plus articulée, notamment autour de périodes historiques en littérature et de sujets plus spécialisés en linguistique. Le diplôme de Baccalauréat universitaire (BA) atteste donc d'une connaissance des diverses formes de la littérature anglophone de ses origines à nos jours, ainsi que d'une certaine compétence en linguistique anglaise.

L'obtention du Baccalauréat se fait selon un système de crédits accordés par modules. Une liste des enseignements correspondant à chaque module est publiée annuellement. Les enseignements sont dispensés et évalués en anglais. Quatre types d'enseignement sont distingués :

- Cours et travaux pratiques d'introduction (modules BA1 et BA2) : voir détails ci-dessous.
- Séminaire : normalement semestriel, 2 heures par semaine.
- Cours : normalement semestriel, 2 heures par semaine.
- Cours-séminaire : normalement semestriel, 2 heures par semaine.
- Abréviations :

CR : cours

CS : cours-séminaire

SE : séminaire

TP : travaux pratiques

Certains modules demandent l'obtention d'une attestation de séminaire pour leur validation. Les modalités pour l'obtention de cette attestation sont différentes selon les séminaires ; elles sont définies par l'enseignant-e en début de semestre. Les évaluations se font sous la forme d'un examen écrit ou d'un examen oral ou d'un travail écrit ou d'un contrôle continu. Les modalités des travaux écrits et des contrôles continus sont définies par l'enseignant-e en début d'enseignement.

BACCALAURÉAT UNIVERSITAIRE

Condition d'admission :

Les enseignements du Département d'anglais sont ouverts à tout-e étudiant-e ayant acquis une maîtrise suffisante de la langue anglaise pour lui permettre de lire des textes littéraires, d'analyser les formes de la langue, d'écouter et de participer à des discussions dans le cadre des enseignements, et de rédiger des travaux écrits en anglais. Normalement, les étudiant-e-s non anglophones ont fait au moins quatre ans d'études d'anglais (généralement au niveau secondaire).
