SYNOPSIS

For its 6th Colloquium, the Association Workshop for Water Ethics (W4W)¹ remains true to its ethical and interdisciplinary approach. It shall explore what water ethics means in practice, based on practical examples from the fields.

The Association W4W is an apolitical civic-minded interdisciplinary platform that has the following goals:

- Conceptualize and explain the ethical dimension of fair and sustainable water management in a globalized world.
- Contribute original thought likely to foster an environment conducive to the implementation of international development commitments.

WELCOME

LAURENCE-ISALINE STAHL GRETSCH

After studying at the University of Geneva, Laurence-Isaline Stahl Gretschi spent fifteen years as an archeologist specializing in prehistory, both in the Jura Canton (for construction related to the Trans-Jura freeway) and at the University of Geneva. Following the defense of her dissertation in sciences, she joined Geneva's History of Science Museum, which she has headed for fifteen years. In 2009 the museum staged an exhibit on hydropower in Geneva. Since 2011, the Museum had hosted all congresses on water ethics.

INTRODUCTION

EVELYNE FIECHTER-WIDEMANN

Evelyne Fiechter-Widemann is a hon. member of the Geneva Bar and holds a MCJ from New York University. After obtaining a doctorate in theology at the University of Geneva in 2015, she is pursuing her research on global ethics of water in Singapore. She taught Swiss and international public law at the Collège de Genève. She was a Board member of the Swiss Protestant Church Aid (EPER) as well as of the Geneva International Museum of the Reformation.
